Journal Submission Process

- Please send your article submissions the LPBA Journal Editor.
    - Name: Gary Allen, Esq.
    - Email: gwa1225@aol.com
- If the LPBA's editorial team has questions, comments, or significant edits, they will reach out to you.
    - Please include your best contact information when you submit your content.
- All submissions are appreciated. No written work is too big or too small.

General Content Recommendations

There are no firm rules regarding the content that we will accept for publication, but there are a few guidelines that we general recommend.

- Our readers find Articles that are related to aviation law or space law are the most interesting.
    - We frequently publish articles containing a wide variety of aviation topics, as well as the legal profession.
- Photos, graphs, charts, diagrams, and other images always help attract readers to your article.
    - If you have multiple images, you are welcome to provide as many as you like. Our editorial staff will pick the most suitable ones for publication.
    - Please note that due to limited space, we may not be able to publish all the images provided with your submission.

Submission Format Recommendations

Just like with the content, there are no firm rules regarding the types of files that we will accept, but there are some formats that are easier to work with.

- A Microsoft Word document is the optimal format for editing and publishing articles.
    - Although this is preferred, you are welcome to submit your articles in the format that you feel most comfortable with.
- If possible, the use of a common font such as Calibri or Times New Roman is preferred. It is also encouraged for the font to be size 12 or 14.
- The LPBA is happy to include footnotes or endnotes with your article, however, we find that endnotes are the more publication-friendly option.
- Please avoid sending PDF documents as this slows down the editing and publishing process.
- We accept all common types of image files, but JPEG is preferred.

If you have any questions about your proposed article or the submission process, please contact the LPBA Journal Editor. Thank you for your research, writing, and general support of the LPBA Journal.
